

Psychotherapy is the treatment of mentally, physically or intellectually suffering people with scientifically proven and justified psychological methods.

Depending on the nature of the disorder and the compiled objective a variety of methods are in deployable:

- ranging from a unique therapeutic conversation as an acute relieve up to
- elaborate theoretical (behavior change) or methods towards depth psychology (personality restructuring or maturing) techniques.

---

Related links {loadposition linklist}